

Even Credit Cards Rewards Value Feature

Users can compare credit card offers using the rewards value of each card in a cash value amount. This cash value amount represents how much a user would earn in rewards, minus any fees given their spending habits

Using user provided spend data and redemption preferences, the rewards value feature estimates the annual rewards they would earn with each card

Users can input how much they spend in different categories to personalize the results

Provides a unique user experience for partners, and a more personalized and tangible comparison for consumers

Congrats, we've matched you with 7 card offers!
